

CERTIFIED COACH,
SPEAKER AND TRAINER

Bill Cox

Helping leaders and their teams become happier, healthier and more productive.

Bill has been married to the love of his life for going on 24 years. He and his wife Maureen (Moey) have the privilege of raising their son Joel, their miracle, a basketball junkie and all around great kid. Bill is passionate about people, their value, and their potential. He is a sucker for a great cup of coffee and a hopeless Cleveland Browns fan.

After 20 years of coaching and developing leaders in a vocational ministry setting as a pastor and executive church leader, Bill set out to pursue a new calling of coaching leaders on a larger scale. So, in 2014, after becoming certified through the John Maxwell Team as a speaker, trainer, and coach, he took the entrepreneurial plunge and started his own coaching business. As a son of a hard working and successful business owner and seeing the many challenges they face, Bill has a special place in his heart for business leaders. He has a passion to help them live deeply fulfilling and successful lives both personally and professionally.

Going into his 5th year as an entrepreneur he has had the privilege of working with 100's of leaders from small businesses to large corporations, helping them to get to the next level and live intentional lives of influence.
